“ Dear Lou,

Judy's passing was a loss to the family and the community. I was unable to attend the visitation and service since I am a bit of an invalid myself.

You and Judy are very much the reason that my family has been in Texas for the last 40 years. You extended the offer to join the AC business, and Judy helped us to become part of the community. There must be something about this community. You and I both returned to Tyler after having “escaped” to other parts of the country. My kids did all their post-high-school education here in Texas.

Although our paths have not crossed often since we retired, it was always a pleasure to see either of you.

There are no words to adequately express the pain of the loss of a partner of several decades. We know that one or the other of us must go first, leaving the other to grieve. Yet most of us say, or at least think, but not soon.

There is never a right time to lose a partner. If the partner is suffering from an incurable disease, there may be a right time to escape the suffering, but we are never ready for the loss.

I share with you the sense of loss. Judy will be missed.

Best regards, and strength in these difficult days,
Jim Crawford
