“ *I believe that a family lives but a half life until it has sent its forerunners into the heavenly world, until those who linger here can cross the river, and fold transfigured into a glorious form in the embrace of our Heavenly Father.
In the words of Wordesworth, "The good die first". Andrew was "The Good foreruner" and will make a way for those that loved him so dearly. He will watch from heavenly places and always be near. Comfort comes in the facts that he indeed found his true love on earth and knew full well his Lord and Savior.
My love is with Amber, the boys, and his parents as I pray for their peace to come.*
