Mike was a year younger than me and a year older than Tommy, my little brother. He lived two houses up and one block over. The neighborhood was full of kids, but it seemed that the Johnson boys and the Sterritt boys were always up to something. Countless hours of Piggy Wants a Motion, Kick the Can and whatever we could dream up to do. We built forts in the "Patch". It was a good time and a good place to grow up and Mike and Ricky were a big part of it. Later, after we were all grown up, Mike would frequently call when he was in Houston. We always seemed to take up where we left off. It has been a few years since our paths had crossed and it took me back when I heard he had passed. I can guarantee that Mike lived to the fullest and left nothing on the table. Thanks for being in my life and I will see you in the next. Save me a seat.
