“ Tank, I'm so sorry to hear what happened. I don't think we have ever meet. I'm cousin of Lynn's on her Dad's side of the family. It was also fun to play with Lynn when we were little and also great to see and talk to her as we grew into adulthood and beyond. When I last saw Lynn she was in the hospital last year. She talked about how happy she was and finding a man that she enjoyed being around. Please keep the Lord in your heart and lean on Him and family. Yours truly in shock and love, karen.

“ David & Lynn's family:

You are all in my heart and prayers. I never had the honor of meeting Lynn although I did have the great pleasure of speaking with her the night of the wedding. I will treasure that conversation forever. David, she loved you very much and you must take comfort in knowing that you both had something very special and rare in this world. To love and be loved is the most precious and rarest of gifts. Lynn's love will live on in your heart always. To those members of Lynn's family I offer my greatest sympathy and heartfelt condolences.
