“ I am so deeply saddened by the loss of my long-time friend, Mack. I worked for Mack for 20 years at First Monday in Canton, and in that time we built a friendship that truly helped shape who I am today. Mack had a brilliant mind that was always teeming with eccentric ideas. He taught me so much through the stories of his life and experiences and was always asking me, “Britt, which would be worse...” followed by two choices that always left me scratching my head. He loved that game. He had a quirky sense of humor that I found odd when I first met him as a teenager, but grew to love as I got to know him over the years.

Mack was the most generous person I’ve ever known. He was always helping people behind the scenes, and although he never wanted people to know, he had a heart of gold and was kind and sensitive to his core. He loved his people and would treat our whole First Monday crew to dinner and a show at the Cowan Center several times a year. Although he never liked any kind of thanks or recognition, he loved to surround himself with those he cared about and gave generously to those around him. And maybe even more than that, he loved dogs, and would interrupt a conversation just to say hi and give a little scratch behind the ears to any puppy he saw walking by.

Mack and Margaret always showed up for all of the milestones of my life, including graduations and my wedding. I’m so glad they are a part of those memories.

I could tell a million funny stories about Mack, because I have a whole repertoire full of years that he made me laugh, but I will suffice to say that he was a wonderful man. He and Margaret loved me as though I was their own daughter, and I will miss them both greatly. I’m so thankful for the years I got to spend with them both, and I only hope that I can honor them in the way they deserve. I love you, Mack, and am so thankful you are a part of my story.
