“ I'm sorry you were so sad when we talked two Sundays ago. I didn't realize how lonely you were. I wish I had known and I wish there was anything I could have done. I hope you are finally at peace.

Your life ,like mine. was always difficult. You coped as well as you could, perhaps with great difficulty at times. Once, we were close family members even through difficult times and now is the time for regrets and sorrow that the last few years could not have been more pleasant. Now you will suffer no more and have no need for the security and protection of separation. We will remember you and your good years fondly. May you rest in peace, nephew.
