I cannot express my sadness for the loss of such a wonderful, caring person. He has helped us in the worst of times as far as a/c needs. He was always a bright spot in my day when it was his time to check our house. I wish we could have done something to help him in his time of need. We are all better people because we knew him as a friend- and that is what he was in the end - our friend! If there is anything his family needs - know that we are available.
