“ I haven't stopped going down memory lane as all of your friends and family are doing this week. As I've pulled out childhood pictures, my heart aches. Riding bicycles together, going to dances, football games, practices at your parents, hanging out, walking together from class to class at REL. I'm so glad facebook put us back in touch the past few months to relive some of the memories. You have always been special to my family and of course me. You will not soon be forgotten nor will the good times and feelings be forgotten. I wish I could be there today with Debbie and Cecil and to meet TJ as an adult. I will make a trip to Tyler in the near future. God gained a humerous and passionate angel this week. Look down with pride of the legacy you have left.

May your family feel God's arms around them today and in the near days to come. Words mean nothing at times like this, but God's love is there and will be revealed.

“ I remember the day Troy's son TJ was born. I was working at Mother Frances Hospital and ran into Debbie, Cecil and Troy in the hall. That was back in the day when you could stand out in the hallway and see all of the newborns. So of course I walked over with them to see little TJ. That was such a happy day and Troy was so proud. “ A great person and friend, always willing to ride to anyone's rescue. Loved the way his eyes twinkled in high school when he talked about his truck. That huge grin when TJ was born. The smirk he was always quick to flash. Every memory with Troy is a good one, life was better just to know him.

“ Dearest T.J. and Suzanne,

We're expressing our thoughts, prayers, and love to you and to Carol, too. T.J., what a wonderful son you have been! You made your dad so proud in the fine young man you've become. Suzanne, what a wonderful wife of 17 years and best friend you have been. Wonderful management, a perfect house, and delicious meals--that we got to enjoy with Troy--all showed your devotion to your family. And, Carol, you've been a blessing to your family in so many, many ways—just as you are to all who know you. We feel your loss and know how much you will miss Dad / Troy, and so will we.

“ I wish to convey my condolences to the McCaughan family and friends. I am Kaylee's grandmother. I did not have the privilege of meeting Troy in person, but I saw him in photos and videos. It was evident my great granddaughters loved him and had so much fun playing and talking with him.

He was Justin's best friend. Justin and Kaylee loved Troy and considered him one of the family.

Kaylee and Justin were able to attend her great, great grandmother's funeral because Troy told them to take his truck, as there's was not running well. I intended to thank him for lending his truck to my family, which enabled us to have time with our KK, Justin, and the girls.

So I say "Thank you Troy" for loving my family and for all the things you did for them.

I am sorry I never got the chance to tell you in person. You were a good, loving man and your loss will leave a deep hole in my family.
