“ Bill, was the greatest grandfather that I could ask for. He was funny, smart, informative, well spoken, and comforting. He taught me a lot and that's all that I could ask for. He made many things possible for his sons and made sure they were always happy. He was sure to always do the same for his daughters. I love him with all my heart. I'll never forget how I asked to see if he could fix one of my games and he saw how desperate I was. So behind my back he got me another copy (since he couldn't fix the other) and bought me another game to go along with it. I will never forget the excitement he had when he gave them to me for the simple fact that he knew he would make me happy. He taught me a lot about religion and how to lead a happy life, I'll never forget it. Rest in peace, Grandpa Bill.
